Some of the fun was sharp-oh. hat burlesque on the Kilohana Art eague! But it was all harmless and even some of the victims who happened to be in the house entered into the spirit of it and had as good a time as anybody seeing themselves walking around the stage grotesquely. Right from the start the show went well. The curtain showed a Waikiki beach scene with Diamond Head in the background, the Moana hotel, pier and bathhouse, the hau-tree over the benches, and Tommy J. K. Evans showing a guitar how to make music. Then on came the Hui Nalu boys just as they do out at the beach, laughing, playing jokes on each other-and here club-members warble a few songs, our own champion Duke Kahanamoku and words by Watson Ballentyne.
